ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF ASIAN STUDIES
Department of Asian Studies

POSITION SUMMARY

The Asian Studies Department at Occidental College invites applicants from the humanities and the arts for a tenure-track Assistant Professor appointment in modern and contemporary transnational or global Korean cultures. This position begins in Fall 2023 as a Mellon Postdoctoral Fellowship with a reduced teaching load and will convert into a tenure-track position in the second year. The specific area of specialization and disciplinary focus is open. We are especially interested in candidates who engage with contemporary Korean communities on the peninsula, but also the circulation of Korean culture around the world, including in diasporic communities. Potential areas of interest and/or disciplinary focuses could include cultural studies, popular culture, media studies, visual culture, critical race studies, food culture, and literature in a transnational context. A successful candidate will join the Asian Studies Department and likely crosslist courses with related departments depending on specialization. Los Angeles is home to the largest Korean community outside of Korea, and Occidental has a significant number of Korean and Korean-American students. We expect that the candidate will engage extensively with these communities.

This search is part of Occidental’s new multi-year Mellon Faculty Diversity Initiative (MFDI), an initiative that aligns with the College’s Equity and Justice Agenda, to intensify our efforts to hire a cluster of Arts and Humanities faculty whose work focuses on race and/or social justice and whose background, expertise, and experiences will contribute to diversifying Occidental’s faculty. The successful candidate will join the second of three MFDI cohorts with a total of nine positions in the Arts and Humanities. As part of the MFDI program, the members of the cohorts will be provided enhanced mentoring, professional development, and a greatly reduced teaching load in their first year. The teaching load during the first year of the postdoctoral fellowship will be 1/1. After the fellowship year, the position will convert to a tenure-track assistant professor position with a teaching load of 2/2 in the second year of the appointment, and a regular teaching load of 3/2 thereafter.
