TAKE BACK THE WEEK

SEXUAL ASSAULT AWARENESS MONTH

2021 VIRTUAL EDITION

Take Back the Week explores intersectionality and sexual violence, raising awareness that sexual violence affects everyone, regardless of gender, race or orientation.

April 7th: Project S.A.F.E takeover of the Occidental Instagram. Tune in to learn more about the history behind take back the week, and how project S.A.F.E is here to support students.

April 9th: Activity books. Keep your eyes peeled for your Survivor Self Care, and Upstanding Workbooks. If you ordered one, we hope you find them relaxing and informative. Check out our insta to see completed photos.

April 23rd 4-6 PST: Survivor Self Care Night. Tune in to this virtual event for survivors and allies to decompress, check in, and find support. RSVP at the link in OSAC’s Instagram Bio!

April 28th: National Denim Day. Wear denim to show solidarity with survivors and spread the message that there is never an excuse for sexual assault. Tag Project SAFE and SLICE in your photos to be reposted.

April 29th 8-9EST/5-6PST: Take Back the Night. Global Virtual Event: International event featuring music, grounding, survivor stories, and a conversation about gender identity and male survivorship.
Educate! Visit Red Canary Song's digital library where you'll find resources about Asian migrant communities, sex working communities, and the violence that they are often subjected to.

Participate! Sign the pledge for We. As Ourselves. Too often, Black survivors are silenced, not believed, or even vilified when they speak out. Sign the pledge to tell Black survivors: We see you, we support you, and we are with you in solidarity. And together, we are fighting for a future when Black survivors are truly heard and supported.

Donate! Consider giving money to "Everyone In" which aims to create affordable and supportive housing in every part of LA county. Those without stable housing are even more vulnerable to sexual violence, and so alleviating the housing crisis is directly related to prevention efforts.
