Course Description

This course will introduce students to the history, theory, issues, concepts, tools, techniques, and controversies of urban planning. In addition to examining a wide body of literature pertinent to the theory and practice of urban planning, students will also study and discuss current planning issues and politics in Los Angeles with a particular focus on community-based planning initiatives. What are the politics of planning in LA? To extend Harold Laswell’s description of the study of politics: Who Gets What, When, How in the sphere of urban planning and land use in Los Angeles? This introduction will serve as a foundation for case studies and community-based research projects conducted in partnership with local non-profit community-based organizations engaged in the planning process. Students will develop community-based research, writing, and presentation skills.

Through this course, students will gain an understanding of the impact that planning decisions have on the lives of city residents and how these community members can actively and effectively engage in the politics of planning.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course students should be able to:

* Articulate an understanding of important concepts and debates in the field of Urban Planning

* Articulate an understanding of the historical forces that have shaped Los Angeles’ planning and politics and how they are and/or are not impacting current day politics

* Participate in high-level discussions and debates about current urban planning dilemmas, especially those facing Los Angeles
*Craft well written papers organized around a sophisticated, contestable claim/thesis statement supported by analysis of evidence marshaled from primary and scholarly secondary sources

*Conduct research on urban planning and politics in Los Angeles

*Work effectively, ethically, and reciprocally with community partners

Course Texts

Readings for the course are available on Moodle or accessible on-line with provided links. Readings associated with each topic should be completed before the first class meeting for which they are assigned and unless otherwise noted, all are required.

We will begin most class sessions with a discussion of “What’s in the News” related to planning. These discussions will be tightly focused on planning, describing the story and either why it is significant or what questions it raises. Contributions should not stray to extraneous topics. Active and insightful engagement in these discussions will be evaluated as a part of your participation grade. Such news stories may also become part of a “Journal of Planning” assignment described below. To prepare for these discussions, students should develop a daily habit of reading the Los Angeles Times and relevant websites and blogs. Some important ones are listed below:

- Planetizen - http://www.planetizen.com/tag/los-angeles
- CityLab - http://www.citylab.com/
- Streetsblog LA - http://la.streetsblog.org/
- Curbed LA (migrated to new platform but still relevant) - http://la.curbed.com/
- Urbanize LA - https://urbanize.la/
- The Eastsider - https://www.theeastsiderla.com/

Course Requirements

(The professor reserves the right to amend these requirements during the semester.) As with all 4-unit courses at Oxy, you are expected to spend a total of 12 hours per week on this course.
The class will be run much like a graduate seminar, requiring you to come to class having read all of the assigned material and being prepared to discuss its content and the questions raised by it. Lectures will be infrequent.

In addition to writing a standard essay (paper #1), you will also complete two, 2-page reflection essays based upon observations from fieldwork. You also have a Planning Journal assignment that requires you to collect and analyze news stories related to planning issues. More detailed assignments describing expectations for all of these will be provided in class. You may use one Delayed Assignment Token - to turn in one of the three essay assignments up to 48 hours after the due date without penalty. If you are choosing to exercise this option, you must let me know by the original deadline by sending an email with the following subject heading: “265 Delayed Assignment Token.”

Because this is a community-based learning and research (CBLR) course you will also have assignments connected to work with our community partners. In past iterations of the course such assignments have included the design of an education, outreach, and engagement strategy for the partners, a review of popular education planning tools used by them, on-line parcel research, survey design and implementation, petition development and signature gathering, and planning and attendance for events. These partner-connected assignments will become more concrete as the semester proceeds and you will have a hand in shaping them. Clear criteria for evaluating your participation in these efforts will be communicated as soon as the expected outcomes are concretized.

Because the community-connected work involves on-going and evolving work, we will all have to be flexible and prepared to change plans. This is a part of the learning process. Due to the pandemic, much of the CBLR work will be remote.

For travel to and from community sites, please use public transit, walk, or cycle whenever possible. TAP cards to ride the Metro are available in the Student Activities Center, JSC.
Remote Learning

Because we are beginning the semester remotely and may have to do so at other points, there may be times when I will record classes for asynchronous viewing. This means that the audio-visual and chat portions of class may be recorded and then stored on the College’s servers. Recordings may be made available through Moodle (or another secure platform), but only for the express and sole use of those registered in the course. The recorded material will be removed at the end of the semester. No other recording of classroom instruction is permitted. The sharing, altering, or distorting of any audio-visual capture of a class session is not permitted. All content contained in the records shall be subject to the College’s Policy on Intellectual Property. Please complete the Audio/Video Consent Release Agreement on our Moodle page by January 24, 2022.

Recognizing that there may be times when it is not feasible, I would still ask that you please come to class with your camera turned on and that you leave it on for the duration of class. We will use the chat function during class, but please refrain from using it for private chats as this is akin to talking in class.

There are all sorts of challenges that come with remote learning and simply living in the midst of a global pandemic. I will do my best to extend grace and ask that you do so as well. Let’s all commit to doing the best that we can.

COVID-Specific Policies

If you have been infected or you’ve been exposed to someone with COVID you should not come to class until you’ve been tested and cleared by Emmons. As with any anticipated absence, alert me you will be out and we will arrange for your learning to continue. Students are expected to wear N-95 or KN95 masks at all times during all indoor classroom activities. Students should not eat or drink in class; please step outside if you need to remove your mask for even a brief period of time.

The class will only be interesting and meaningful if you are faithfully in attendance and actively contribute to discussions. There may be times when technological or personal issues prevent you from doing so. It is your responsibility to alert me in such instances. You should conscientiously do ALL of the assigned readings and consistently contribute to discussion.

Teachers and students share the responsibility of creating a stimulating space for learning. Students are responsible for attending and participating in class, completing assignments in a timely manner, and being prepared to discuss readings and material in class. Students are also responsible for engaging in respectful, open and thoughtful discussion with each other and the professor. In order to foster open, honest, thoughtful and respectful learning, teaching, and class discussions, please:

- Avoid private chat, texting, checking email or IG, surfing the web, etc. Doing this during class is disrespectful to me and to the other students.
- If possible, inform the professor when you may have to arrive late, leave early, or are having tech issues
Engage in active, courteous listening to other students and contribute to class discussions respectfully. Please alert the professor if you have any concerns about our classroom environment.

Statement of Shared Academic Integrity Commitment

Academic Integrity is a shared community value. It is built around trust and respect between members of the Occidental Community, and embodies a commitment to honesty and integrity in every aspect of one's academic life.

All members of the Occidental community are committed to uphold the highest degree of academic integrity. Unless stipulated otherwise, the academic work done for all assignments is expected to be the student's own, and students give proper credit to the ideas and work of others.

Signing the Academic Integrity Commitment at matriculation and at the beginning of every semester represents a student's affirmation to uphold the shared values of honesty and integrity. When signing the Integrity Commitment associated with work in a course, students are affirming that they have not cheated, plagiarized, fabricated, or falsified information; nor assisted others in these actions.

Statement on Title IX (Link to Title IX)

In the event that you choose to write or speak about having experienced sexual misconduct, including sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, stalking, sexual exploitation or any other form of sexual and/or gender-based harassment, as a designated Responsible Employee, I must notify the Title IX Office. They will contact you to let you know about accommodations and support services at Oxy and reporting options both on and off-campus. You have no obligation to respond to the Title IX Office or to meet with them to discuss support services and reporting options.

If you do not want the Title IX Office notified, instead of disclosing this information to your instructor, either through conversation or a class assignment, you can speak confidentially with the following people on campus:

- Oxy’s Survivor Advocate, Project SAFE (survivoradvocate@oxy.edu)
- Emmons Counseling (For appointments, call: 323-259-2657)
- Rev. Dr. Susan Young, Office of Religious and Spiritual Life (young@oxy.edu)

The sexual misconduct policy, along with additional resources, can be found at: http://www.oxy.edu/sexual-respect-title-ix/policies-procedures. If you would like to contact the Title IX Office directly, you can email Title IX Coordinator Alexandra Fulcher at afulcher@oxy.edu or call 323-259-1338.

Special Accommodations/Learning Differences (Link to Disability Services)

Students with documented disabilities and learning differences who are registered with Disability Services are required to present their accommodation letter to the instructor at the beginning of each semester, or as soon as possible thereafter. Any student who has, or thinks they may have, a physical, learning, or psychological disability may contact Disability Services at accessibility@oxy.edu to learn about available services and support. More information is available at http://www.oxy.edu/disability-services.

Accommodations for Reasons of Faith and Conscience (Link to the policy in Catalog)

Consistent with Occidental College’s commitment to creating an academic community that is respectful of and welcoming to persons of differing backgrounds, we believe that students should be excused from class for reasons of faith and conscience without academic consequence. While it is not feasible to schedule coursework around all days of conviction for a class as a whole, faculty will honor requests from individual students to reschedule coursework, to be absent from classes that conflict with the identified days. Information about this process is available on the ORSL website: https://www.oxy.edu/office-religious-spiritual-life

Land Acknowledgement and Land Back

Occidental College sits on the traditional unceded, occupied territory and homelands of the Tongva people. A simple acknowledgement is not sufficient. We must work to restore their stewardship of the land. Please click through to read more about the Gabrielino-Tongva tribe about the practice of land acknowledgement and about the land back movement.

Schedule of Topics and Assignments

Complete all assigned reading by the first day we discuss the topic and bring hard copies of assigned reading to class.

W 1/26 and M 1/31 What is Planning?

Here are some questions to keep in mind as you read and navigate the assigned websites: What is planning? Why and how does planning matter in our lives? How does the material relate to the thoughts expressed in the Antipod podcast? What questions are raised by the material you are reading and viewing? What did you learn? Who is the assumed audience for the presentations generated by the planning department and how did you reach this conclusion? What assumptions undergird the material? What, if anything is missing or overlooked?
