CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

HONORIS CAUSA

JOHN G. POWER '58

John Power is a retired partner of the Los Angeles law firm of O'Melveny & Myers. Since his retirement in 1997, he has served as the Sheffelman Distinguished Lecturer at the University of Washington School of Law and as an adjunct professor at the UCLA School of Law. A specialist in corporate law, he joined the Los Angeles office of O'Melveny & Myers in 1961, becoming a partner in 1969. From 1973 to 1975, he was resident partner in the Paris office and later coordinated the firm's international practice in Los Angeles. He joined Occidental's Board of Trustees in 1993 and served as chair from 2001 to 2003. A former president of Occidental's Alumni Board of Governors and member of Oxy's Alumni Council, he received the College's Alumni Seal Award in 2003 and the Auld Lang Syne Alumni Award in 2011. His involvement outside of Oxy includes being vice chair of the board of the YMCA of Metropolitan Los Angeles. Power has a degree in political science from Occidental and earned his law degree from New York University.

LULA BAILEY BALLTON

Lula Bailey Ballton co-founded and spent 23 years as chief executive officer of the West Angeles Community Development Corporation (WACDC), a ministry of West Angeles Church of God in Christ, led by Bishop Charles E. Blake. WACDC is dedicated to increasing social and economic justice, demonstrating compassion, and alleviating poverty. Under her leadership, WACDC received a Best Practices Award from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for its signature affordable housing project, West A Homes; a Presidential Commendation for its dispute resolution programs; and state, county, and city recognition for its social service, housing, and economic development programs. Before co-founding the WACDC in 1994, Ballton spent 14 years as a professor and administrator at Delaware State University, the City Colleges of Chicago, Los Angeles and El Camino College, and Loyola Marymount University. She earned her A.A. from Los Angeles City College, a B.A. in speech communications from California State University, a master's in communications from Northwestern University, and a law degree from UCLA School of Law.

OLAMIDE U. AJOSE '87

A longtime advocate for educational equity, Lande Ajoye is the senior policy adviser for higher education for California Governor Gavin Newsom. In this role, she works with the nation's largest state-run higher education system to improve affordability, access, and completion rates. Before joining the Newsom administration, she was executive director of California Competes, which develops nonpartisan recommendations for improving California higher education. She also served as managing director at the strategic consulting firm Informing Change and focused on community college success at MDRC and the James Irvine Foundation. She currently serves as chair of the California Student Aid Commission. She is also a commissioner for the Western Association of Schools and Colleges and a member of the Institute for Higher Education Policy and the advisory committee of the Higher Education Policy Center at the Public Policy Institute of California. She holds a Ph.D. in urban and regional studies from MIT, a master's degree in urban planning from UCLA, and a B.A. in diplomacy and world affairs from Occidental.

ERIC MICHAEL GARCETTI

Eric Garcetti is now in his second term as the 42nd mayor of the city of Los Angeles—the latest chapter in a public service career that began nearly two decades ago when he was first elected to the Los Angeles City Council. A fourth-generation Angeleno and the grandson and great-grandson of immigrants, Garcetti's life and public career have been driven by his commitment to the values of justice and equity. He led the campaign to raise the city's minimum wage to $15 an hour, lowered its business tax, passed an ambitious public transportation plan, and has led a major regional initiative to house the homeless. He also led the successful bid to bring the 2028 Summer Olympic and Paralympic Games to Los Angeles. At the same time, he has focused on improving the delivery of basic city services—paving roads, filling potholes, repairing sidewalks, and planting trees. Garcetti received his B.A. and M.A. from Columbia University, studied as a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University and later at the London School of Economics. He served as an assistant professor of diplomacy and world affairs at Occidental from 1999 to 2000.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic costume dates back to European universities in the Middle Ages, when gowns and hoods were required for warmth in unheated buildings. Eventually in the United States the mortarboard, with medieval tassel, became the standard headwear, while the colorful hood is draped over the back of the gown.

Gowns are normally black, although some universities have designed their own in the color of the institution. The hood reflects both the field of study and the institution that conferred the degree. An Occidental hood has a black-and-orange lining to reflect the College's colors. The color of the velvet edging on the hood is that of the degree conferred. The width of the edging represents the degree—two, three, or five inches for the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees respectively. The mortarboard is black with a black tassel, although if worn by the holder of a doctoral degree, it may have a gold thread. Undergraduates wear the tassel on the right side; graduates, on the left.

The following colors are associated with the degrees frequently represented in an academic procession of the faculty in a liberal arts college:

Arts, Letters, Humanities	White	Medicine	Kelly Green
Economics	Copper	Music	Pink
Education	Light Blue	Philosophy	Dark Blue
Fine Arts	Brown	Physical Education	Sage Green
Law	Purple	Science	Golden Yellow
Library Science	Lemon	Theology	Scarlet

Members of the governing board of an institution are entitled to wear doctoral gowns. Trustees of Occidental College wear gold medallions embossed with the College seal, hung from an orange ribbon, with their black gowns.

CULTURAL IDENTITY

One of the most important accomplishments of a student's college experience is the development of their authentic self. Members of the Class of 2019 proudly display their ethnic identity with a black stole bearing the Occidental crest and class year. The two tips of the stole reflect their ethnicity either by a fabric or a flag that is representative of their heritage. Students who identify as LGBTQI+ wear a double lavender cord, and first-generation graduates wear a white-and-orange cord.
