Non-tenure Track Adjunct Faculty Teaching Position at Occidental College

The Psychology Department of Occidental College is seeking instructors (Non-tenure Track Faculty) to teach one or more courses for the 2019-2020 academic year. Applicants should have their PhD in a relevant area of psychology. For certain classes, professionals with a PsyD and teaching experience will also be considered.

The Fall academic term runs from Tuesday, August 27 (first day of classes) until December 13 (end of final exam period). We have needs to fill the following courses, with the meeting days & times already set in the schedule:

- Psychology 101: sections at Monday, Wednesday, & Friday from 8:30-9:25am and at 9:35-10:30am
- Psychology 200 (Research Methods): Monday, Wednesday, & Friday 3:00-3:55pm

The Spring academic term runs from Tuesday, January 21 (first day of classes) until May 8 (end of final exam period). Class meeting times and dates have been set tentatively but may be adjusted. Currently, we have a need to fill these courses, but additional needs may arise as we identify them later in the Fall.

- Psychology 101: Monday, Wednesday, & Friday from 8:30-9:25am

Please e-mail the Department Chair Andrew Shtulman PhD (shtulman@oxy.edu), with a CV and some evidence of teaching / references included. Applications will be processed immediately and interviews arranged (in-person or online if necessary); we are seeking to fill positions quickly as possible.

Background about our institution:

Occidental is a residential, liberal arts college with approximately 2000 undergraduate students located in the Eagle Rock neighborhood of Los Angeles, CA. Our admitted students have an average SAT score of about 1300. Approximately 41% of our student body are domestic students of color and 15% are first-generation college students.

Our faculty has approximately 135 full time members, and the Psychology Dept. has seven full-time members covering a wide range of specializations. About one-half of graduating psychology majors go on into graduate/professional work in psychology, education, or health sciences. Apart from the introductory level, class sizes for courses in the department range from about 10 to 23 students.

Occidental College is committed to academic excellence in a diverse community and to supporting interdisciplinary and multicultural academic programs that provide a gifted and diverse group of students with an educational experience that prepares them for leadership in a pluralistic world. Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply.
